This kind of thing happens all the time in the field. I will contact Jessi Joseph and let her know we are willing to work with them.

What is the deal with cameras being there? Can we legally give them the ok. CNN wants to film us sampling.

Laura Legere, Scranton Times, good call, story already running, Roy sent you the clip. Kim Kennedy declined and later changed her mind, but release was already out. She is staying in Dimock tonight, hoping to get film tomorrow of trucks arriving, resident interviews, interview with an EPA person on what we are doing there. We have reiterated the rules for CICs to deal with the media, FYI. She expects a story to run on CBS News on Saturday. Call to Andy Maykuth at the Inquirer, went well. Don Hopey called back too late for an interview, sent him the PR directly and offered to follow up later.
